All Those Arrested Make Bond for Appearance for Trial Third Monday in September.

A combined raiding force of DeKalb and Fulton county police descended on a home in the fashionable Brook-haven section of the city late Monday afternoon, arrested 16 persons and confiscated equipment of what they styled one of the largest lottery "offices" ever raided in this section.

The officers surrounded a house just behind the Brookhaven Country Club on a road which runs back of the lake.
At a signal they rushed the place and found a complete layout with telephones, typewriters, fans and adding machines. Girls were busily typing away and others were answering telephones. The officers said they found a large number of lottery tickets and records.

Of the 16 arrested, all but one were white. Six were women. All were taken to the DeKalb county jail where they posted bonds on lottery charges.
Sheriff Jake Hall assessed $1,000
bonds for those styled by the officers as "bosses," and put bonds for alleged "clerks" at $500 each. Trials have been set for the third Monday in September.

Among those arrested are several with old criminal records for both lottery and whisky violations. The names of the men and amounts of their bonds, follow: R. D. McDuffie, $1,000;
Alvin Guyol, $1,000; Eddie
Guyol, $1,000; M. F. Mills, $500; W. C.
Goodlin, $500; Claude Ogle, $500;
H. C. Hopson, $500; Roy Steele, $500;
Russell Storey, $500; and Jim Epps, $500.

The names of the women and their bonds, follow: Mrs. Peggy Andrews, $500; Mary Evans, $500; Ruth
Evans, $500; Alice Evans, $500; Mrs.
Cecil Morrison, $500; and Emmaline
Steele, $500.

The raiding officers stated they found not only the well-equipped and orderly business office, but living quarters arranged for two people in another part of the house. These quarters were empty, however.
DeKalb Officers E. D. Foster, A.
H. Smith and C. W. Austin were aided in the raid by Fulton County Officers Jim Ragdale, Captain J. C.
Oliver, Lieutenant A. T. Butler, J. B.
Wallace, A. P. Douglas and Merion Riley.

The alleged lottery office was located just over the line in DeKalb county.

Would-Be Suicide Leaps Twice To Injure Self
PHILADELPHIA, July 23.—(AP)—
Neighbors who said Isadore Kriss, 53, was despondent because he could not find a job were startled today when he jumped from a second-floor window of his home.
In the street, 18 feet below, he arose, brushed off his clothing, looked around and walked into the house.
A moment later he reappeared at the window and jumped again. This time he turned a somersault in the air and landed on his side. He did not get up. Police took him to a hospital and physicians said he probably will recover.

Congress will be asked to pass legislation requiring all federal employees, including postmasters, to be selected through civil service, and not, as at present, by political appointment.
Congressman Robert Ramspeck of the fifth district told the Georgia Rural Letter Carriers' Association at its convention at the Ansley hotel Monday.

"Postmasters," the congressman told the carriers, "should be selected from the ranks on their merits and should not be made a football of politics by both national parties."
He added that circumstances intended to his election as chairman of the house civil service committee in the next congress and that he would ask the committee to endorse his proposal.
He also said he would father a bill setting up an arbitration board to which discharged federal employees might appeal.

"America is going forward to a better day," Congressman Ramspeck declared. "It is up to the government to set an example for the nation to follow by restoring wages to federal employees and by hiring more employes."
"We are not going back to the days of 1927, 1928 and 1929 while we are under the leadership of President Roosevelt." He has definite ideas on putting the unemployed back to work but this movement is being retarded by a small minority in congress who still have the same business attitude of six years ago," Ramspeck said.
He asserted that Georgia has a harmonious delegation in congress now that is working for the administration.

Helvering Challenges Reports That Cotton Processing Tax Is Being Widely Evaded.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—
With repeal in effect but six months, taxes on liquor and beer brought the treasury $258,911,332 during the fiscal year which ended June 30.
This was disclosed today with the publication of figures on internal revenue collections, giving receipts from the various forms of federal taxation and showing increases in all its general categories.

Doubts Evasion.
Meanwhile, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, took cognizance of reports that the cotton processing tax had been evaded on a wide scale with a statement doubting the truth of such reports and asking that any evidence of avoidance be submitted to him.
He said the cotton tax yielded $144,767,292 for the fiscal year and that this figure, including also the import compensating tax, was well above the $128,000,000 which the levy had been estimated to produce.

For the fiscal year 1934, income tax collections were $817,025,339 or $70,233,935 greater than the year preceding. Of the increase, $60,935, $67 came from the tax on individual incomes, while corporate income taxes gained $3,298,068.

Stock $68,463,344.
The capital stock tax yielded $50, 168,344. The dividends tax brought in $50,220,122, and excess profits
$2,630,615. These were not in effect in 1933. The estate tax showed an increase of $74,202,226 and the gift tax $4,538,414. All tobacco taxes were up $22,429,069 and stamp taxes
gained $9,152,649.

Manufacturers' excise taxes brought $142,257,899 more into the treasury in the fiscal year 1934 than in 1933, with $7,584,622 of the increase coming from the tax on gasoline, $19, 952,829 from the tax on automobiles and motorcycles and $12,000,000 from tires and tubes.

The total figures previously announced, were $2,672,239,194 in all internal revenue collections for the year as compared with $1,619,839,224 in 1933, an increase of $1,052,399,970.
For the month of June, 1934, as compared with June, 1933, income taxes gained $39,585,938; spirits $18, 883,644; excise taxes $19,414,094, and miscellaneous taxes $1,688,585. Tobacco tax collections declined $1,703, 612 and stamp taxes yielded $4,961,
928.

For the year, the excise tax on imported distilled spirits totaled $6,577, 958, an increase of $6,572,453; excise tax on domestic spirits $61,889,863, increase $5,144,940; recreation tax
$4,822,698, increase $4,818,901; wines $3,382,813, increase $3,174,185, and floor tax on spirits $5,210,954 against no collections from this source in 1933.

The processing taxes, which were in effect only a part of the year, yielded $371,422,885. All receipts from this levy are to be paid out in benefits to farmers for curtailing production.

The total was divided as follows:
Wheat $11,621,174, cotton $144,767,
232; tobacco $18,085,428; field corn
$4,498,193; hogs $17,084,611; paper and jute $2,244,830, and sugar $179, 416. The effective dates of these levies were: Wheat, July 3, 1933;
cotton, August 1; tobacco, October 1;
field corn and hogs, November 5; paper and jute, December 1, and sugar,
June 8, 1934.

By the Associated Press.
A sacrifice to scorching summer sun,
the heat wave toll of the week mounted to 507 lives Monday while nearly all sections of the nation sweltered.
The drought crisis was intensified with searing temperatures that blasted vegetation and added thousands of live stock casualties between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains.

Quincy, Ill., was the hottest spot in the nation with 112 degrees reported. Throughout the middle west the thermometers were universally well above the century mark. Keokuk, Iowa, and St. Louis simmered at 108 and Minneapolis reported 106.
Only to southern coastal states were heights, and deaths occurred with stupefying rapidity. In Missouri alone 154 persons have succumbed to tropic heat since the first of the month. In Illinois 125 heat deaths occurred, while Nebraska's toll was 53. In St. Louis 46 deaths occurred in two days, almost one every hour.

Only to southern coastal states was relief hope held out for today. Storm warnings for small craft were issued.
Thousands of dollars in crop damage due to the heat were reported in Iowa. Agricultural states watched farm products wither and vanish.
It was 106 at Chicago's airport, a few miles from Lake Michigan, 104 in Memphis and 102 in Shreveport, La.
Miles City, Mont., suffered at 100 de-

Attorneys for Nine Com-

in Cutting of Rates.

Three judges of the Fulton superior court Monday heard arguments on the applications of nine independent Georgia telephone companies for an injunction restraining the public service commission from putting into effect a 17 per cent rate cut effective on bills for this month.

The arguments, presented by Attorneys Marion Smith, J. Prince Welster and Devereaux F. McClatchey Jr., representing the telephone companies, and Assistant Attorneys General John T. Goree and B. D. Murphy, representing the public service commission, were submitted to two sessions of the court, one in the morning, another in the afternoon. The court is composed of Judges Virgil D.
Moore, Edgar E. Comerford and E. D.
Thomas. Evidence in the nine cases was submitted last week and they were argued jointly.

Mr. Smith, who is counsel for the Georgia-Continental Telephone Company, the largest of the group, made the leading argument for the utilities, charging that the rates prescribed by the commission are confiscatory and will force the companies into bankruptcy. Mr. Smith also charged that the schedules were arrived at after an unfair hearing and that the commission members were coerced into making the rates by threats of removal.

Mysterious Red-Clad Girl Seen as Dillinger Nemesis

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—The underworld, into whose front ranks he had swashbuckled his way, put the fatal "finger" on John Dillinger.
That was the consensus explanation today of the tip that changed the Indiana desperado from Public Enemy
No. 1 to morgue case "July 116."

Officially, greatest secrecy guarded all efforts to learn through whom and how the coup was effected by federal operatives and East Chicago (Ind.)
police to mow down the notorious killer last night as he left a North Side neighborhood theater, presumably with two girl friends.

Unofficially, the following reports swayed into general circulation as the truth of the slaying of the arch-criminal, trapping and slaying of the arch-criminal.

1. That a "girl in red" led him to his death, the only one of his molls to "double-cross" him.
2. That the "girl in red" either was the wife or sweetheart of a mail robber and traded Dillinger for the freedom of her mate and the rewards of feared—$15,000 by the federal government and five states.
3. That the "girl in red" was unearthed by Sergeant Martin Zarkovich, of the East Chicago police, who had taken a furlough especially to "get" Dillinger for the slaying of his friend, Policeman William P. O'Malley, slain by Dillinger mobmen in an East Chicago bank robbery.

35 PER CENT CUT
ON NAVAL STORES
FREIGHT ORDERED

Utilities Commission Promulgates Most Drastic Rate Reduction Since Taking Office.

In the most drastic rate reduction yet made by the present utility governing body, the Georgia public service commission Monday ordered railroads operating within the state to reduce freight charges on naval stores between 30 and 35 per cent.

The order becomes effective on August 20, the same date the commission set last week for the new class freight rates to go into effect. The class rates were reduced by the commission Saturday approximately 18 per cent.

The commission issued a rule nisi
last May requiring the carriers to appear at a hearing and show cause why their intra-state rates on naval stores should not be reduced.
The old rates on resin and turpentine, the principal naval stores, were fixed in 1885. Slight changes were made from time to time until 1936, when the rates were fixed at substantially the same level as the original 1885 rates.

In 1918 a 25 per cent increase was put into effect and another 25 per cent increase was ordered in 1920.
The interstate commerce commission in 1922 cut the rates 10 per cent, leaving a net increase of approximately 40 per cent. The present maximum schedule of rates have been in effect since 1932.

To State Ports.
Testimony at the commission's hearing showed that the rail movement of naval stores in Georgia is principally in the direction of the ports of Brunswick and Savannah and that these commodities constitute a substantial part of the carriers' freight haul in the naval stores section of the state.

Mark W. Thomas, of the Central of Georgia, who testified in behalf of all the carriers, said that the Central of Georgia in 1928 had a grand total carload traffic of 18,840 tons and turpentine of 44,896 tons, which produced a freight revenue of $76,290. In the year 1932 the railroad had a total carload freight traffic on these commodities of 18,840 tons with a revenue of $36,735, indicating the haul and revenue had decreased more than 50 per cent.

The showing of other carriers in the territory indicated the same experience.

Driven From Rails.
"The commission is of the opinion," Monday's order read, "that the rates on these commodities have practically driven the traffic from the rails by the year 1931, and that, but for the trick competitive rates, which have been permitted to be filed by this commission from time to time, the loss in volume and in revenue from these commodities would have been almost complete."

Naval stores are divided into two classes, the "A" and "B" classes, and as follows: A. crude wood oil, pine gum, pine pitch, pine tar, pine oil, turpentine, rosin, rosin oil, rosin liquid, rosin oil and rosin sining. The B commodities are: turpentine, spirits of turpentine and turpentine.

The new schedule of rates as set up by the commission provide a charge of from 5 cents per 100 pounds for 10 miles or under up to 27 cents per 100 pounds for hauls as long as 460 miles.
In the B class the rates range from 6.1-2 per 100 pounds for distances of 10 miles and under up to 43 cents per 100 pounds for distances of 460
miles.

Bought for $100,000

The Lester Book store corner at Broad and Poplar streets has been bought by the Massell interests for approximately $100,000. It was reported Monday. The property, a four-story building on a lot 25 by 90, was bought from the S. H. Phelan estate.

A filling station at Peachtree and Twelfth streets was given as part payment, valued at approximately $50,000.
The Lester corner, known as 70
Broad street, N. W., will be improved with a new terra-cotta front.

Then she made him hand over her

The negro, Frank Lee, tried to idea on each occasion as Mrs.

Delivered to the police, Lee was fined $50 or 30 days for tres-

Only Picketing and Minor Forms of Vandalism
Disturb Otherwise Se-

By the Associated Press.
Efforts to end two major strikes were under way Monday with peaceful negotiation pushing violence out of the labor picture.

Pickets for the striking Minneapolis truck drivers cruised about the city, freighted the drivers of the city's garbage trucks into stopping their service, but otherwise kept the peace.

Meanwhile, federal mediators tried to win the consent of both sides to settling the strike by an election in which all employees would vote on whether the truck drivers' union should represent them in collective bargaining.

Vandalism broke out in San Francisco's street car strike. Unidentified persons wrecked a street car by greasing the tracks, and tossed a flaming rag, soaked with fuel, in an attempt to set fire to the home of H.
Peters, a conductor, who had refused their service, but otherwise kept the peace.

The Pacific coast longshoremen, whose 76-day dispute flared into the recent general strike, were engaged in a vote on submitting their strike to arbitration. Planes had distributed ballots up and down the coast.
A strike of livestock handlers in the St. Joseph Mo., yards was in prospect, as employers failed to answer an ultimatum from the workers calling for action on peace terms proposed by the regional labor board.

Officials of a Hopewell, Va., rayon plant went into conference with John Weinstock, representing the department of labor, in an effort to end a strike of rayon workers, which has been in progress since July 28.

Their strike over 400 singing men work in the Harriman Hosiery mills of Harriman, Tenn.

EMPLOYERS HOLD ALLOF

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23.—(AP)—
Prospects for peace in the Minneapotainly today as employers held aloof from negotiations to settle the dispute.

An informant said the employers advisory committee would reject the proposal of the Rev. Francis Haas and Prospect for peace. He is an officer for an employees' election to determine if the latter wanted to be represented by the union in negotiations with the owners.

The committee publicly refused to divulge its attitude on that question.
Indications that the truck owners had broken for peace in hopes of breaking the strike were strengthened by their announcement that of 2,658 drivers employed by 110 firms only 225 had failed to report for work or advised that they were available.
Strikers, also had not replied to the conciliators' proposition.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(AP)—A slender little woman, dressed in summer pink, today called on J. Edgar Hoover, investigative head of the department of justice, to extend congratulations on the death of John Dillinger, and a few minutes after she left, Hoover, black eyes snapping, named Lester M. Gillis as the man now most wanted by the department.

The caller was Mrs. W. Carter
Baum, widow of a special agent killed in the Wisconsin woods last April when Dillinger and his mobmen blazed their way to freedom after being trapped at a county inn.
Gillis, named by the government as Baum's assassin, is probably better known as George "Baby Face" Nelson.

"We're going to get him," Hoover said grimly. "Now that Dil-linger is gone we're going to concentrate on all members of his mob that are still left and on 'Baby Face' in particular. Nobody can kill one of our men and get away with it."

A reward of $5,000 is outstanding for Gillis' capture and $2,500 has been offered for information leading to his arrest. Hoover named John Hamilton and Homer Van Meter as the Dil-linger lieutenants whom the government is out to get. In the past, the criminals wanted now the Dillinger is gone, he named Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd and Richard Galatas, western outlaws alleged to have taken part in the murder of four police officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, in Kansas City, Mo., June 17, 1933.

All Helpers Warned.
Hoover called Gillis a "crazy killer"
and rated him lower than Hamilton or Van Meter in intelligence but said he was the most vicious of the lot.
Reared in Chicago during the Ca-
none era, Gillis is 25 years old, 5 feet 4-3/4 inches in height and weighs 135 pounds. He is an officer by trade.
His police record shows he was arrested in Chicago on a robbery charge in January, 1931, and given a sentence of one year in the Illinois state prison, beginning July 17, 1931. He escaped February 17, 1932, and has never been apprehended.

John Hamilton, 28 years old, has relatives in northern Michigan. He is 165 1/2 pounds in weight and 5 feet
8-1/2 inches in height. He was given a 25-year sentence for a bank robbery in South Bend, Ind., in 1927 and started to serve his sentence on March 19, 1927, but escaped September 20, 1933, from the Indiana state prison in Michigan City.

Long Record.
Homer Van Meter has the most lengthy criminal record of the three.
Now 29 years old, 5 feet 10-3/4 inches in height and 134 pounds in weight, he was first arrested at Anderson, Ind., July 28, 1933, on a latent charge and given a short prison term.

Dillinger Fails in Effort To Alter Fingerprints

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—The discovery that John Dillinger had attempted unsuccessfully to obliterate the whorls of his fingerprints today indicated that the science of fingerprinting still was practically foolproof.

Officials examining the bullet-slugged body on a morgue slab said Dillinger had used acid in efforts to blur the telltale prints. But he was unsuccessful. Sufficient identifying marks were found to prove by the fingerprints that the dead man was the long-sought gangster.

COMMITTEE TO MEET TONIGHT ON VACANCY

Many Aspirants for Post of Custodian of City Auditorium.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of council's buildings and grounds committee, Monday afternoon called a special meeting of the committee for 2 o'clock this afternoon to recommend some disposition of the post of auditorium custodian, vacated through the death last week of Walker T. Lee.

The filling of the position bids fair to become a real problem. It may become a grand scramble with more than 30 aspirants in the field.

The latest entry late Monday was B. H. Bellinger, prominent in ninth ward civic and political circles.

White called the committee to meet at the home of Councilman William Knight, 1204 Niles avenue, N. W., because of Knight's illness. The councilman said he wished to attend the committee session and White moved the meeting out to his home.

Among other aspirants for the job were Pete Hubbard, former engineer for The Constitution building; Clint Barber, former custodian of the auditorium; Homer C. Foster, former councilman; Robert H. Goodman, widely known in city politics and in the office supply business; E. P. Dodd, formerly first ward councilman; Press Huddleston, William Sharp, former manager of the Atlanta theater.

J. S. McGhee, former superintendent of the city fire alarm system; Theo Pierce, Ed Grant, Simon Davis, Fred Gibbs, former deputy in the county tax collector's office; J. D. Brooks, Ed Barnes, license inspector in the office of the city clerk; Richmond Paul, T. C. Hellbruck and M. C. Holcomb.

Gilliam To Devote Week to S. Georgia

Ed A. Gilliam, candidate for governor, spent Monday in Atlanta, conferring with friends after a busy week in southwest Georgia which ended with a speaking at Cordale Saturday afternoon.

He left Monday night for a second week of campaigning in the same section, his plan being to speak at Americus, Dawson, Sylvester, Ashburn, Vienna and Perry.

Gilliam announced that he has accepted an invitation to speak at Warm Springs as the guest of the Warm Springs Chamber of Commerce and at Savannah as the guest of the Savannah Real Estate Taxpayers' Association, these dates to be announced later.

Gilliam said his trip through southwest Georgia last week was highly encouraging.

In Georgia's FIELDS and STREAMS

ANGUILLA, THE EEL.

The nearest approach to an ichthyological romance that I have ever heard was the story of Dr. John Schmidt, which is all revealed by him under the title, "Ueber die Fortpflanzung des Aals und seine Laichplätze, eine zusammenfassende Uebersicht," which was published at Hamburg, Germany, in 1912. In that impressive title, Dr. Schmidt is indicating that he has found the breeding place of the eel. Is that an achievement? Listen to this:

One of the early Greek writers on zoology said that eels had no sex, but originated in that awful sort of region he designated as the bowels of the oceans. Where that is exactly we do not know, but it is a fact that this was written about 2,000 years ago.

Later, however, zoological writers observed the migration of adult eels to the sea and immediately classed them with the catadromous fishes, saying that they descended to the sea and eventually spawned just off the shoreline. In the light of the actual facts, our modernists were almost as far wrong as the Greek naturalist. Let me explain that word catadromous. The meaning of the term is that the species descends to salt water to breed, distinguishing it from the anadromous species, or those that normally live in salt water and go up into fresh water to breed, as the shad and salmon.

Dr. Schmidt began his work by collecting the larvae of eels and plotting the exact position of their capture on a map. He found that the size of the eel larvae coincided with certain regions of the ocean. He traced this down and found that the smallest of the eels were to be found in a position that corresponds roughly with the Sargasso sea. From here he traced the routes of migration of all the eels of Europe and America, finding that both species descended; the rivers of the respective continents and made their ways across untracked ocean wastes to their original homes, where they spawned and then died, it is supposed.

The young eels or elvers then begin their slow migration homeward, across the oceans, which they traverse slowly. Reaching their destinations, the young fellows start upstream, where they grow to maturity. After the passage of several years—10 or 11, to the best of my memory—these eels pass again seaward and start a new generation of eels on serpentine way through life.

Space forbids more detailed description of the habits of eel but if any of you want more detailed information, I will tell you where to get it.

Two Are Indicted IN BOND FORGERY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—Accused of having had in their possession and transferring $136,000 of counterfeit Dyer and Henderson county bonds, two men were indicted today by the Davidson county grand jury.

Officials said one defendant, listed as Olin O. alias Jack Wellborn, alias J. O. Williams, was under arrest in Chicago and officers would be sent to return him here immediately.

The other defendant has not been arrested and his name was not revealed. It was charged in the first count that the defendants transferred $118,000 of forged Dyer county bonds, and $20,000 of Henderson county counterfeit securities to J. L. Lamping, described by Assistant District Attorney General M. H. Goldstein as a former real estate dealer of Lexington and Parsons, Tenn.

The second count charged the defendants with having had the alleged bogus bonds in their possession.

Negro Leaps 3 Stories To Escape Irate Wife

An irate wife inspired Will Stephens, a negro, of 139 1-2 Ash street, to jump out of a third-story window early Monday morning. He landed near Radio Patrolmen Summerlin and Roberts, who had been summoned to quell the disturbance between Stephens and his wife. The negro received a broken right leg, which he told police was only a minor injury compared with those his wife would have inflicted if he hadn't escaped her by jumping out of the window. The wife is charged with disorderly conduct and a similar charge will be booked against Stephens when he is able to leave Grady hospital, police reported.

St. Simons Causeway Offered Road Board

The state highway board Monday took under advisement a proposal of the city of Brunswick and the county of Glynn to take over the Brunswick-St. Simons causeway and make a free highway out of what is now a toll road.

The proposal was made through George Cowart, Brunswick attorney, who is chairman of the toll road committee of the Brunswick Young Men's Club. He said that the city and county would continue to pay off the bonds on the $446,000 project if the highway board would take up the interest on the bonds, which amounts to about $7,000 a year.

The proposal was received by Commissioner Max I. McRae, who said he would take it up with the board and report for an early decision.

'MORALS' TRIAL CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

State and Defense Rest in Hollywood 'Party' Court Action.

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—(AP)—State and defense rested today in the "Hollywood morals" trial after Prosecutor Arthur Veitch brought out in cross-examination that Gloria Marsh, one of the defendants, had refused to testify before the grand jury on the advice of her lawyer.

Counsel said final arguments probably would be completed not later than tomorrow noon, and the fate of Miss Marsh and her co-defendant, Dave Allen, prominent Hollywood figure, submitted to the jury of eight men and four women shortly thereafter.

Miss Marsh, who is accused of participating with Allen in an immoral party April 26 at the apartment of June De Long, film extra, said she was served with a subpoena to appear before the grand jury May 11.

She admitted she was told at the time the subpoena was served that the grand jury desired to question her concerning what took place at the alleged party. Her attorney, whom she did not identify, told her she could refuse to testify on the grounds she might incriminate herself, she said.

Veitch brought out Miss Marsh's true name is Gloria Turner. The witness testified she was married a year ago to Eddie Turner, who, she said, was in the east at the time of the alleged party.

Veitch's motion that the records show Miss Marsh's true name as Gloria Turner was granted by Superior Judge B. R. Schauer.

Miss Marsh and Allen, who is on leave of absence as manager of a film extra bureau, denied they participated in an immoral party. They contended Allen was "framed."

FLAGLER IS NAMED PROJECT MANAGER FOR TECHWOOD

Official designation of D. A. Calhoun as supervising projects manager for both Techwood and University housing projects and of T. Thorne Flagler, prominent Atlantan, as project manager of Techwood, was made Monday by the public works emergency housing corporation, Washington.

Notification of the designations was received Monday by Calhoun, who has been sent here to expedite start on the two undertakings of the federal government at a total cost of more than $5,000,000.

A project manager for University is expected to be named within a short time.

In commenting on Flagler's appointment, Calhoun said Monday he believes the government has made "an admirable selection, since his wide experience in the construction field, his ability in his chosen profession and his thorough familiarity with Techwood since its inception, eminently fit him for the position."

BRIDGES RESIGNS VICE PRESIDENCY OF DAIRY COMPANY

Fred T. Bridges, former assistant commissioner of agriculture, Monday announced his resignation as vice president of the Foremost Dairies, Inc., of Atlanta. Mr. Bridges said he would devote his time to two paying products companies in which he has continued his interest during his connection with the Foremost company.

In leaving the dairy business, Mr. Bridges announced he would work in the future for the creation of a state board of control for the milk industry.

"For nearly two years I have been keenly interested in the dairy industry, both as assistant commissioner of agriculture and in my capacity with the Foremost Dairies, Inc.," Mr. Bridges said. "There are many vital problems connected with the milk industry and I am convinced that they can best be solved by the creation of a board to have absolute control over the business, including the fixing of prices."

Mr. Bridges said there are so many groups of people concerned with the milk business that he reasoned the entire industry could progress better if all of them had one person or board to work under.

Purvis Clears Self of Criticism In Capturing Outlaw Dillinger

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—It was not a veteran crime fighter, but a young lawyer turned detective, who "took" John Dillinger.

Melvin H. Purvis, who engineered the capture, wanted Dillinger more than almost anyone else, short of the East Chicago, Ind., police, who were out to avenge the brutal death of a fellow officer at the gunman's hands. The Dillinger hunt had brought sharp criticism on Purvis' head.

Now 31 years old, Purvis is a soft-spoken South Carolinian, the son of a prominent family in Timmonsville, he stepped into the Chicago office of the bureau of investigation, the federal detective service, in time to meet a storm of kidnapping and killings.

With 30 agents, covering Illinois, Wisconsin and part of Indiana, Purvis hit first at Roger Touhy's gang of kidnapers. He set one of the most elaborate traps of criminal history for them when he "rode out" to collect the ransom for John "Jack" the Barber Factor. Surrounding them with a force of 200 police, and a one-plane force buzzing above, Purvis laid the humiliation of seeing his two quarry escape and the thing branded a fiasco.

He succeeded later in rounding up the entire Touhy gang, now in prison. He lost Verne Miller, notorious outlaw, when Miller shot his way out of a trap set in a Eberhard road apartment house. But he wrote, on the other side of the ledger a few months later, when he carried off the capture of Verne Sankey, the western bad man.

Dillinger's escape from the federal agents at Little Bohemia, near Mercer, drew fire at Purvis, and later, when he captured the whereabouts of Dillinger's girl friend, she declared Dillinger had been in the restaurant with her, but had walked out unnoticed.

Purvis denied this and kept on the hunt. A few days ago he said frankly that his office had no many "tips" about Dillinger's whereabouts that it had no sound information at all. He added, "he can't hide forever."

Trained in the law, Purvis practiced in South Carolina after he was graduated from the University of Southern California in 1925. He joined the bureau of investigation in 1928, worked in Texas, later in the Carolinas, and was put in charge of the Birmingham, Ala., office in 1931. He was made head of the Chicago office in November, 1932.

ton was the principal product as the only section of the state where conditions were good.

DEEP SOUTH ALSO FEELS SCORCHING TEMPERATURES

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Summer's scorching assault, outdid all previous efforts of the year late yesterday as thermometers in various sections of the deep south jumped to 100 degrees and above. But a small craft storm warning in the east gulf and a forecast of thundershowers promised probably temporary relief in several states.

Tennessee points, already afflicted with serious drought conditions attending the prolonged hot spell, appeared to have the day's highest readings. All heat records for the year were broken when the Memphis thermometer rose to 103 at mid-afternoon and showed indications of going higher. With 1934 rainfall in that vicinity 11.19 inches below normal, grave damage to vegetable and grain crops was indicated.

Nashville had an official 102 at 2 p. m. and a street temperature of 112 after an early morning reading of 75. The all-time July heat record there was 109 established in 1930. Huntsville, Ala., reported 102 and the thermometer at Birmingham after pausing in the high 90's as a result of temporary cloudy conditions, later shot up to 100 for a season record.

Above normal rainfall which has kept the New Orleans area comparatively cool for the past week or so, appeared to have dried up in the city joined the heat wave procession yesterday afternoon with a 2:20 p. m. thermometer reading of 98.3 degrees, four degrees above the previous 1934 high of last week.

Atlanta, with thundershowers in prospect, reported 98 degrees during the afternoon.

Readings in the high 90's were general in Mississippi, where the drought threat is steadily increasing in parched farm fields.

The reading at Little Rock, in Arkansas, drought area, rose from a morning 77 to 100 in the afternoon.

The New Orleans weather bureau issued a small craft warning on the gulf coast from Mobile to Carrabelle, Fla., forecasting thundershowers and flash to strong winds which carried the heat wave to the Gulf of Mexico.

Scattered thundershowers were also forecast in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and northern Florida and the weather bureau forecast "hot and warm" for central Alabama and north-west Florida.

BURGLAR TRAPPED
BY ARMED NEIGHBORS

A shotgun brigade formed by neighbors resulted in the capture of a negro burglar late Monday night but radio police made the arrest.

Neighbors heard noises in the grocery store at 717 Rice street, which is operated by Mrs. Burt Wade, and they got out their shotguns and surrounded the place. However, they did not move radio police to enter the store. The patrolmen captured a negro who gave the name of Turner Burnett, 18, of a Pelham street address, who was locked up on a charge of burglary.

MYSTERIOUS GIRL BETRAYED KILLER

probably never be known."

But the "girl in red" was the center of speculation. Zarkovich, it was understood, struck up an acquaintance of a man in a saloon who boasted he had a girl friend who was Dillinger's "little pal"—"the girl in red."

From that lead, reports said, Zarkovich met her and either her husband or boy friend and convinced them that the reward to be had for "fingerin'" Dillinger should not be turned down.

Chicago police said the girl and another woman accompanied the unsuspicious gangster to the packed neighborhood theater, came out with him and then stepped aside to let federal men close in. Police said both women were in custody, but federal men denied anyone was held.

Face-Lifting Doctor

Among late developments tonight was the arrest of the doctor who "lifted" Dillinger's face in his futile efforts to defy recognition was known, being shadowed and his arrest was near. The doctor was being allowed temporary freedom because other developments were expected to materialize through him. He was reported to live in Indiana's Calumet district.

Also authorities were searching for Dillinger's late hideout and the huge loot he is believed to have secreted. His mob netted about $500,000 in the brief time it held the spotlight of gangdom.

A coroner's jury brought in a formal verdict of justifiable homicide, presiding over the slaying, cited the death of Dillinger as an annihilating blow at organized crime, and demanded that the remains of the gang be brought in "dead or alive."

Coroner's Physician Jerome Kearns described the wounds which brought death to the long-hunted Dillinger.

"The bullet that killed Dillinger," he said, "was the one that entered the back of his neck right at the shoulder, ripped through into his head, cutting into the brain and emerged through the right eye."

Only one other bullet, he said, punctured the desperado. It cut through the eighth rib, missing the heart by two inches and emerging from the left side.

"No. 116—July."

The coroner's jury viewed the body. Except for the attention it created and the bullet holes in it, it differed little from the other bodies which were laid out in the morgue. Wired to the great toe of the right foot, like a shipping tag, was a pastebored slip. It read: "No. 116—July," which indicated it was the 116th body received during the month.

John Dillinger Sr., father of the desperado, and Hubert Dillinger, a half-brother, arrived at the McCreary undertaking parlor in mid-afternoon in a house owned by E. F. Harrey, a Mooreville mortician.

Several hundred inquisitive spectators crowded about the establishment and the services of 10 body men were required to clear the way for them to enter a back door.

Police forced back a group of about 50 women who attempted to force their way into the rooms. The elder Dillinger, obviously fatigued after his long journey and the sorrow attendant upon his son's violent death, was seated in an upper chamber and given a glass of water.

Arrangements were made to take the relatives to the Cook county morgue where the body would be held until tomorrow morning.

Before the 70-year-old Dillinger left Mooreville upon his unpleasant mission, he had tentatively planned to have the funeral services held at the home of Mrs. Audrey Hancock, John's sister, in Maywood, a suburb of Indianapolis.

Funeral Expenses.

"I suspect John would rather it had been that way," the Indiana farmer said of his son's death. "I hope John had enough money on him to pay his funeral expenses. If he didn't it will be an awful burden, but I'll do the best I can."

Only $7.50 was found in Dillinger's pockets and police said they had found no clue to other funds.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal investigation division, said every effort would be made to apprehend the two women who were with Dillinger at the theater. Of Dillinger he said:

"He was just a yellow rat that the country may consider itself fortunate to be rid of. There are other rats still to be gotten, however, and we are not taking any time off to celebrate about Dillinger."

An "inside story" of the killing of John Dillinger gave much of the credit to Sergeant Martin Zarkovich, of the East Chicago, Ind., police force. A friend of Officer William P. O'Malley, who was slain in the $200,000 holdup of the First National Bank of East Chicago on January 15.

Mr. Zarkovich, it was said, spent his furlough on Chicago's north side and made the acquaintance of a woman friend of Dillinger, believed to have been the "girl in the red dress." The acquaintance was made through a "talkative" male friend in a saloon.

The policeman "played up" to the girl, pointed out what could be done with her share of the reward, and persuaded her to sell out Dillinger.

Saw Women.

He said he saw Dillinger leaving the theater with two women, one on each side of him.

"As they reached the sidewalk, the three turned north and the government men and the East Chicago police officers began to close in on them. The three were lost to my view for a moment just before they reached the alley and then I heard the shots."

"My partner and I ran over into the crowd and ran into the same girls. I stopped them—they are in their thirties—and asked them what the rush was. They tried to push past me and start to run. A government man stopped me as I reached for them and said 'Leave them alone and get mixed up in this. This is a government job.'"

"I looked around and the girls had disappeared."

The authorities were reported to know the identity of the plastic surgeon who endeavored to change the facial appearance of the outlaw. Dillinger's red hair was pushed back and his hair was dyed black, and his face had been "lifted" to remove a dimple and scars.

Showmen in Scramble For Dillinger Souvenirs

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Showmen scrambled for mementoes, the more gruesome the better, of John Dillinger's demise today.

"I'll give a thousand dollars for the shirt he was wearing, if the boys will sell it," one told police Lieutenant Stephen Barry.

Another offered $100 to the city for four blood-stained bricks from the alley where Dillinger died. They hoped to exhibit these trophies at fairs and carnivals.

"It'd be a gold mine," one of them told Barry enthusiastically.

LONGSHOREMEN BALLOT ON ARBITRATION ISSUE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—(AP)—Under the guidance of the government's mediation board, 12,000 strikers of the longshoremen voted today on whether to submit their troubles to arbitration and go back to work. A favorable vote was widely forecast.

Vestiges of business paralysis engendered by the long strike and the unprecedented mass walkout of San Francisco bay district longshoremen, partly with the longshoremen and other marine workers began disappearing as the voting progressed. Portland labor leaders dropped plans for a sympathetic walkout there, pending outcome of the balloting.

Shipping operations began to approach their normal status. The unloading of cargo by non-union men continued with increased speed at Seattle, Portland and San Francisco, in order that the wharves might be cleared of great accumulations of consignments.

One man was injured and four other persons reported subjected to danger when a trolley car caused the wrecking of a trolley car at the foot of Polk street and the Market street lines gave curtailed service with "company cars" as the attempt was made to fire a conductor's home. A shot was fired through the window of a restaurant patronized by carmen. A few instant bets and beatings and threats were reported.

About 700 national guardsmen remaining on duty on the state-owned San Francisco waterfront were ordered withdrawn tonight or tomorrow.

400 RETURN TO WORK

HARRIMAN, Tenn., July 23.—(AP)—The hum of knitting machines was music today to more than 400 men and women who returned to jobs they lost as much as a year ago when the Harriman Hosiery Mills forfeited its Blue Eagle to the national recovery administration and closed.

The mill back in the good graces of the NRA under a settlement which restores the Blue Eagle and strikes an end of an eight months' stoppage.

The plant then 623 employees out of work when it closed. More than 300 strikers were already on the streets, idle since their walkout last October. Many of the strikers as well as non-strikers subsisted on federal and state relief.

By the end of the week, mill executives said, the plant will be running full capacity, employing more than 600 men and women.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—In an attempt to end a strike which has been in force since June 29, officials of the Tubize-Chatillon Corporation, rayon manufacturers, conferred today with Anna Weinstock, representative of the United States Department of Labor.

The conference continued throughout the day and P. P. Huff, secretary of the company, said no details would be made public until tomorrow.

The rayon company's plant at Hopewell, Va., has been closed since June 29, when a majority of the 1,800 employees walked out.

On March 12, 1925, he was arrested at Chicago on two robbery charges and was committed to the Indiana state reformatory at Pendleton for from 10 to 21 years on each charge. Later he was transferred to the state prison at Michigan City and was paroled on May 19, 1928.

He was first arrested on a highway robbery charge at St. Louis, on September 16, 1925, and given a five-year sentence to the state prison at Jefferson City. He has been arrested for lesser crimes at Kansas City, Kan., Pueblo, Colo., Akron, Ohio, and Toledo, Ohio. On November 24, 1930, he was sentenced to the Ohio state penitentiary on a bank robbery charge for from 12 to 15 years but escaped while en route to the penitentiary and has been at large since.

Galatas, the fifth man to be named to the Hoover blacklist, is an underworld veteran. Forty-three years old, he is 5 feet 9-1/8 inches in height and weighs 155 pounds. He was first arrested at Toledo, Ohio, on July 3, 1918, on the suspicion that he was a confidence man but was released. He was next arrested in Los Angeles on May 14, 1923, on a similar accusation. Other arrests on similar charges took place at Columbus, Ohio, in April 29, 1926, and at Flint, Mich., April 11, 1927. There are no records of the United States division of investigation, and their prisoner, Frank Nash, in the Kansas City massacre.

BUS CRASH STIRS THREE-FOLD PROBE

Death Toll Mounts to 17
in Ossining Tragedy; Brakes Believed Bad.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—Prosecution for criminal negligence loomed strongly today in the three-fold investigation of the Secor Hills bus tragedy as the death toll mounted to 17 persons.

Under the direct orders of Governor Herbert Lehman, New York state authorities lent all possible aid to Westchester county officials to determine if alleged negligence on the part of owners and operators of the bus precipitated its wild careening down an Ossining hillside and its plunge off a ramp.

Twelve persons—part of Sunday vacationers from a Brooklyn democratic club bound for a ball game between the team and one at Sing Sing prison—perished in the blaze that spread over the bus and lumber yard into which it plunged. Five more have died since from burns and injuries. Twenty-two others are still confined to hospitals, some not expected to live.

The attitude of the investigators was summed up in the terse comment of Dr. Amos G. Squires, medical examiner: "As far as we have already gone, I can say criminal charges will result."

The death-ridden bus reportedly was owned in New Jersey and authorities of that state enlarged the investigation to its three-fold scope with orders to find the bus owners and to determine if its equipment was in good condition.

The investigation at the scene of the bus crash was hampered by the wreckage of the bus and the debris. Survivors related that the driver, Frank Incarnato, had frequent trouble with the brakes en route to Sing Sing from Brooklyn. They told him using the hand brake time and again when the foot brake failed to hold; and that it was useless when working of cargo by non-union men at the Secor hill road in the heart of Ossining. He died in the crash.

"I talked with the motor vehicle bureau in Albany," Dr. Squires said, "and I am surprised to learn there is no inspection of buses. Anyone can run anything he likes on the highways, it seems."

Four of the other six buses were seized today by District Attorney Frank Coyne. In all, they carried 280 merry-makers when they left Brooklyn and Coyne termed them "junk" and "death contraptions."

LOOT OF DILLINGER PLACED AT $241,700
BY U. S. AGENTS

The total loot taken by John Dillinger in his short, sensational life of crime was nearly a quarter of a million dollars. The best figure of officials is $241,700.

Most of his depredations were directed against banks in his home state of Indiana. The largest single "haul" was $144,000 taken in the robbery of Greencastle (Ind.) bank.

The loot in other robberies attributed to "John," as most federal agents and police invariably referred to him, ranged down to $3,000 and up to $28,000. Illinois and Wisconsin were the only states, other than Indiana, to suffer from his holdups, so far as the records show.

Of the total of $241,700, Dillinger's share was probably not more than one-third, if that high, inasmuch as he invariably worked with one or more confederates.

Bad Luck Befell Many of Women Who Aided Dillinger During Career

CHICAGO, July 23.—(AP)—Women received a two-year sentence. Patricia Cherrington was sentenced to two years in prison for harboring Dillinger at the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis. Jean Crompton, alias Ann Sothorn, given probation on charge of harboring at Little Bohemia, was arrested at Waterloo, Iowa, when Tommy Carroll, Dillinger gangster, was killed by detectives. Returned to Madison, Wis., for parole violation and sentenced to a year and a day in prison.

Helen Gillis, wife of George "Baby Face" Nelson, one of the gang, is on probation for harboring at Little Bohemia.

Mary Kinder, Indianapolis woman arrested with him at Tucson, Ariz., was released later and is now in Indianapolis.

Mary Longacre, sometimes spelled Longaker, sister of Tommy Jenkins, one of 10 men who escaped Indiana state prison last year and was killed later, whereabouts was unknown. Dillinger was arrested in her home, Dayton, Ohio, September 22, 1933, and placed in jail at Lima, Ohio, where Sheriff Jess Sarber was killed when confederates released Dillinger. The gangster was said to be very "fond" of her and had her picture in his watch when killed.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it's because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid, the harmless internal medicine discovered by a Western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonard was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—had circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leonard's discovery, so why doubt or delay longer when Jacobs drug stores and all druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

What Lies Ahead in Far East?

Strange as it may seem to the average American, this attitude is not evidence of martial spirit, but in a clearly marked contrast to the behavior of the Japanese people, this high and low, in their consideration of the affairs of their nation.

whole earnestly desire the good will of the world and are unhappy over the fact that they are forced forward to the ranking position of the nations of the accident they seem to have come to cross purposes with some of the peoples they have felt in previous years they could turn to for friendly co-operation and assistance.

First and foremost among these is the United States, toward which the average American could regard second only to the love he has for his own country. Throughout the years, the United States has been the United States government or some United States public official and financial leader has had his hand in them from the pitfalls that have threatened them.

But all goes back to the fact that the United States is preaching the gospel of democracy. In her serious crisis in her career of internationalism, with her internal troubles and her international position, the situation precipitated by the Shanghai incident and the creation of the League of Nations.

Heretofore in her crisis she has had the sympathy and friendly interest of the world's people, and of the American people. Now she is in a strait she has not, and on this fear is based a considerable element of the world's opinion, so plainly evident in Japan.

Their diplomats have made mistakes, just as have ours, but in the past few years they have shown a remarkable improvement.

The report of the news that Ambassador Saito has held several informal discussions with General Hurlburt has been interpreted by some as indicating both in official circles and among the people.

If the United States government with a careful consideration of the situation that went before it, can make the Japanese even half way, there can be no doubt that the people of the eastern country will deeply rejoice.

TEXAS OFFICERS LAUNCH MANHUNT

Hamilton, Fugitive Pals Sought by Heavily-Armed Forces of Law.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, July 23.—(AP)—A determined manhunt by hundreds of heavily armed Texas officers was under way tonight for a trio of condemned convicts who shot their way out of the state penitentiary here Sunday.

Authorities were prepared for a battle with the fugitives—Raymond Hamilton, Joe Palmer and Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, all under sentence of death.

At the same time prison authorities moved quickly to ascertain the ramifications of the plot by which the convicts obtained three pistols and aid from two men who met them with automobiles outside the penitentiary.

The trio left behind three other convicts who were killed by bullets aimed by guards.

1 Slain, 2 Wounded.

Bullets killed William (Whit) Walker and seriously wounded Charlie Frazier and Ray Johnson as they struggled to scale the walls.

W. A. Padlock, chairman of the prison board, and Lee Simmons, general manager of the prison system, headed the inquiry into the break.

Frazier, who in some unexplained manner obtained two pistols with

Pilot's Knee Is Blamed In Fatal Plane Crash

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—The air ministry's finding that an airplane crash in which Squadron leader Stanley Collett was killed on June 20, resulted from a tall pilot's knee jamming the switch which controlled the supply of gasoline to the engine, was concurred in today by the coroner's jury.

Collett, son of London's lord mayor, was an observer in a bombing plane which crashed from a height of 100 feet and burst into flames. The pilot was slightly injured.

The coroner found the forced descent was caused by the pilot accidentally shutting off the fuel supply with his knee.

which he started the escape scheme in motion, refused to say where he obtained the weapons. Johnson likewise was silent.

From Houston came a report that the fugitives were in a car which collided with another machine there late yesterday and that one of the men might be wounded.

Officers were unable to pick up the trail, however. Hamilton, who formerly terrorized the state while he and the late Clyde Barrow were raiding banks, was believed to have led the way to some obscure hideout.

Under Death Sentence.

Hamilton was in the Huntsville death cell awaiting execution for his part in the slaying of Major Crowson, prison guard who was shot when Hamilton and others escaped from Eastham state prison farm last January 18. Previously, Hamilton had been given a life sentence for the killing of J. N. Bucher, a filling station proprietor at Hillsboro.

Joe Palmer also was sentenced to death for the Major Crowson shooting. He has been imprisoned several other times for robbery and theft.

Thompson, Walker and Johnson were fugitives from the Oklahoma penitentiary, who committed several robberies in Texas before being arrested in Florida. Thompson was given the death sentence at Marlin last March for robbing the First State bank there of $41,000. Walker and Johnson were under sentences to 99 years imprisonment for the $10,000 robbery of a jeweler. Both of them have long criminal records.

Frazier the Leader.

The leader of the escape scheme apparently was Frazier, who previously had broken out of the Arkansas and Louisiana prisons.

Prison Manager Simmons said his investigation so far had not disclosed any negligence on the part of guards.

"Of course, it goes without saying that the men had outside aid and that more guns were ready for them in the waiting automobiles," Simmons said.

"Each of the cars waiting for the men had a driver and a woman in one of them. Somewhere down the road they picked up another woman. One of the cars contained a radio and it was turned on as the desperadoes conferred with their friends."

Dallas police arrested Floyd Hamilton, brother of Raymond, for questioning, but released him.

Floyd said he could throw no light on his brother's escape.

EDWARD M. HORINE, 74, PASSES IN MIAMI, FLA.

Former Manager of Grand Opera House Was Son-in-Law of Laurent DeGiv.

Edward M. Horine, 74, for many years manager of the Grand Opera House and son-in-law of the late Laurent DeGiv, pioneer Atlanta theatrical man, died at his home in Miami, Fla., Sunday night.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at Spring Hill chapel with the Rev. Witherspoon Dodge officiating. Burial will be in West View. H. M. Patterson and Son in charge.

Mr. Horine, a familiar figure in the Atlanta theatrical world before he left Atlanta nine years ago to make his home in Miami, married Miss Louise DeGiv, daughter of the builder of the Grand Opera House, now known as Loew's grand.

A prominent building manager, Mr. Horine was active in the affairs of the Atlanta Building Owners and Managers' Association, having served as president of that organization in which he was a life member.

He is survived by his wife and four daughters, Mrs. J. J. Phillips, of California; Mrs. Floyd Carlock, of Bangor, Maine; and Mrs. Louise H. Worsham and Mrs. Morgan Van Valkenburgh, of Miami.

Death of J. S. Ware Attributed to Heat

Heat which reached 95 degrees Monday is believed to have caused the death of James Stewart Ware, 53, of 203 Merritt avenue, N. E., who collapsed at a garage at 216 Capitol avenue about noon.

Slightly cooler weather conditions were predicted for today by the weather bureau with extremes near 72 to 92 degrees and the weather fair.

The heat wave has been moderated over the eastern lake section and as far as New England, but continues strong in the middle and lower Atlantic coast regions, the bureau declared.

Temperatures, however, are abnormally high over the southeast, showing an excess of 40 degrees.

Physicians who examined Mr. Ware shortly after he dropped dead attributed his death to the heat.

However, an inquest will be held to determine the cause.

Mr. Ware, accompanied by his wife, had gone to the garage on business, when he suffered a sinking spell, which he failed to rally. Arrangements are in charge of J. Austin Dillon, but they will not be completed until after the inquest, it was stated.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Arnold Ware; five brothers, Joshua, Thomas, Alex, Ben and Willie Ware; three sisters, Mrs. A. L. Mooney, Mrs. Lela Harold and Mrs. Jessie Jolley, and three grandchildren.

Savannahans Discuss Plans For Motorcade in October

These three Savannah men were in Atlanta Monday arranging plans for the Four Capitals motorcade, October 12, 13 and 14, between Atlanta and Savannah. They are, left to right, Godfrey B. King, executive secretary to Mayor Thomas B. Gamble, of Savannah; Alex S. Cassels, manager of the tourist bureau of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, and Charles G. Day, vice president and general manager of the Hotel DeSoto, Savannah, the home of the motorcaders while in that city.

Plans for the motorcade, October 12, 13 and 14, inaugurating the opening of the Four Capitals highway between Atlanta and Savannah were given added impetus Monday when three prominent Savannahans, Charles G. Day, Godfrey B. King and Alex S. Cassels, met with the Atlanta committee.

Here Monday to extend to the convention of the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' Association an invitation to meet in Savannah in 1935, the men stated that Savannah was extending herself to make the visit of the motorcade a memorable occasion.

Mr. King, executive secretary to Mayor Thomas B. Gamble, stated that "never before has the city of Savannah extended itself to glorify the role of host as it is doing now in preparing for the motorcade."

The business men of Savannah have greeted announcement of plans for entertaining the motorcade with pledges to leave nothing undone that might add to the friendly entertainment of the guests, Alex Cassels, manager of the tourist bureau of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, said.

Mr. Day, vice president and general manager of the Hotel DeSoto, home of the motorcaders while in Savannah, said that motorcaders such as this, which is jointly sponsored by The Savannah Morning News and The Constitution, are tremendous forces in educating Georgians and acquainting them with the scenery, economic advancement and potentialities of the state.

He stated that completion of the new highway which will travel through four of Georgia's five capitals, will open up a direct route between north Georgia and the state's seacoast, making it possible for additional thousands of Georgians living in the northern part of the state to visit and appreciate the seacoast.

"By the same token," he said, "the new highway will make it possible for people living on the seacoast to visit Atlanta and the mountains of north Georgia. It will provide an avenue for the exchange of friendship and hospitality between the people of the two sections of the state."

"We have advertised the state outside the number of traffic laws. It also will arouse public sentiment against breaking these laws and therefore will reduce the number of traffic fatalities."

The inadequate number of police in Atlanta was stressed by Bridges, who said Atlanta has fewer patrolmen per capita than most other cities. He said it was impossible for the police to enforce all traffic regulations and a great part of their observance must be the responsibility of the citizens, whose lives are endangered every time a traffic violation occurs.

Woman, Who Wed Divorced Man, Expelled by Church, Sues Pastor

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—Mrs. F. H. Sills, of Metter, expelled from a primitive Baptist church because she married a divorced man, wants $10,000 damage.

Mrs. Sills has filed suit in Chandler county superior court naming Elder J. Walter Hendricks, pastor of several Primitive Baptist churches, including one here and another at Metter; E. J. Bird, a deacon, and J. S. Bradden, clerk of the church, as defendants.

Mrs. Sills claims she was damaged $10,000 to her reputation by being dismissed from the church under such circumstances.

The church of which Hendricks is pastor has strong convictions against divorce. Sills, a pastor in the lower Black Creek Primitive Baptist church and a member of that church, did not come under the jurisdiction of Hendricks' church, but Mrs. Sills was a member of Hendricks' church and the action was taken against her.

Sills is a former Savannah traveling salesman. He left the Primitive church and joined the Missionary Baptist, studied in the Louisville Seminary and preached in that church for some time. The first Mrs. Sills, who lives here, divorced him. After that Sills returned to the Primitive Baptist denomination and remarried into that denomination.

LONDON, July 24.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—The slaying of John Dillinger provided the outstanding news story for all London morning newspapers.

Englishmen over their breakfasts read many copies of descriptions of the shooting in Chicago, and on the career of the Indiana desperado. On editorial pages they read the moral which British editors drew from Dillinger's life of crime.

There were numerous photographs of the gang leader, including a variety of portraits and a picture of the dead desperado, on a street corner, which was transmitted by radio.

The Times, in an editorial, stated the executioners of Dillinger have "earned the world's congratulations."

Remarking that in some countries playing a public enemy without a trial is regarded entirely satisfactory the Times observed "it is not so regarded in the jurisdiction of American statesmen are unlikely to rest while the necessity remains to use such methods against degraded creatures that prey on people."

The popular delusion that has surrounded the obscene Dillinger is a supreme evil which the United States has to overcome.

KENTUCKIANS SEARCH FOR TWO ATTACKERS

GLASGOW, Ky., July 23.—(AP)—An attack on a ten-year-old girl by two negroes near here today resulted in a general manhunt by Sheriff George B. Payne, his deputies and numbers of citizens.

One negro, who gave his name as Murrell Whitney, 18, was placed in jail out of a half-dozen picked up on suspicion. The girl's 12-year-old brother pointed him out as one of the attackers. The girl, however, failed to identify him, but the boy insisted she was in no condition to recognize her attacker.

The girl had gone to pick blackberries with her father and her brother, and left them to get water at a spring when she was attacked by one of the negroes. Her screams attracted her brother, who said he saw both the men. They fled and Percy brought the child to a hospital here, where she was said to be in a serious condition.

FIVE MEN ARE INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

The elder Landrum was treated for bruises while the driver of the other car, C. F. Fillingame, 35, of 747 Durant place, N. E., was treated for cuts about the face. They were both charged with reckless driving.

President To Land In Hawaii Today

ABOARD CRUISER NEW ORLEANS, ACCOMPANYING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt watched the cruisers Houston and New Orleans in tactical maneuvers today on his last day at sea while approaching the Hawaiian Islands.

For the president's benefit, the Houston manned her anti-aircraft small guns and simulated the repulse of an attack by enemy aircraft.

A special radio program of Hawaiian music and an address of welcome by Governor Joseph Poindexter, of Hawaii, gave the president and his party happy anticipation for their four-day visit in the islands of smiles and music.

Early tomorrow morning the presidential ship is to nose into her anchorage near the Hawaiian town of Napoosoo, for the first landing of an American president on Hawaiian soil.

BRIDGES PRAISES TRAFFIC SURVEY IN RADIO ADDRESS

The federal traffic survey of Atlanta, now being conducted, was highly praised by G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee of council, in an address at 6:15 o'clock Monday night over WGST.

"The survey will result beneficially to Atlantians in showing what's wrong with the traffic situation," Mr. Bridges said. "It will correct many of our traffic problems and will reduce the number of traffic laws. It also will arouse public sentiment against breaking these laws and therefore will reduce the number of traffic fatalities."

The inadequate number of police in Atlanta was stressed by Bridges, who said Atlanta has fewer patrolmen per capita than most other cities. He said it was impossible for the police to enforce all traffic regulations and a great part of their observance must be the responsibility of the citizens, whose lives are endangered every time a traffic violation occurs.

'Blood' of Dillinger Finds Ready Sale

CHICAGO, July 23.—(UP)—Pieces of paper "stained with John Dillinger's blood" were on sale today for 25 cents a square inch—and there were plenty of buyers.

Nobody even pretended to believe that all the pieces of red paper actually had been dipped last night in the pool of blood where the criminal fell in an alley when shot by federal agents. They bought them anyway.

A piece of stained handkerchief, guaranteed to be "one of Dillinger's," sold for 50 cents. Enough pieces were sold to make 50 handkerchiefs, all of which were supposed to have come from Dillinger's pockets.

A showman offered the city $100 for four of the bloodstained bricks from the alley. Another offered $1,000 for the shirt which Dillinger wore when killed. Others wanted to buy his hat and his tie.

Hickman's Defense Backs Alibi Story

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—(AP)—Arguing for his client's life, Edwin McKenzie, defense attorney in the Millard Hickman murder trial, asserted to the jury today that the prosecution "by its own witnesses," had shown it flatly impossible for the marine engineer to have murdered Louise Jeppesen in Golden Gate park May 13.

"By their own witness," the attorney declared, "they have recited screams were heard from that tunnel where a young woman was foully murdered at 4 a. m. and at that very hour, we have shown Hickman was calling for Miss Blanche McKay at her own hotel."

Once more giving an exhaustive rehearsal of testimony in the case, McKenzie made the final plea for Hickman before the box where sat the eight men and four women who will decide his fate.

Arguments were unlimited in time, but Prosecutor Peter J. Mullins was expected to wind up the arguments this afternoon, demanding that Hickman be sent to the gallows for murder of the Utah girl.

New Effort Launched To Free Stephenson

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 23.—(AP)—A new effort to win freedom for D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, was begun today when Harry E. Hodsdon, a real estate dealer, filed a petition to release Stephenson by habeas corpus.

Hodsdon set out several technical points as a basis for the action, claiming the Klan leader was improperly tried, Stephenson entered Michigan City state prison on November 21, 1925, convicted of manslaughter in the death of Miss Madge Oberholzer.

LONG DROPS VICE WAR TO TURN TO MUSIC

BATON ROUGE, La., July 23.—(AP)—Temporarily interrupting his "vice war" in New Orleans, Senator Huey P. Long returned to the state capitol today, occupied the governor's office and announced plans for establishment of a state department of music designed, he said, "to make Louisiana the first music state in the union."

Music is one of the lesser known hobbies of "the Kingfish."

Coming back to Baton Rouge where he recently spent several busy weeks bossing the legislature, the senator said he was seriously concentrating his attention upon development of the musical talent of Louisiana's youth.

QUICK ACTION SEEN ON BAKER REPORT

Lengthy Study on Defense in Air Warmly Received in Official Circles.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—(UP)—The administration tonight pledged prompt action on recommendations by the Baker aviation board to make the army air corps second to none in strength and efficiency.

The lengthy study by the board, headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, into all phases of the nation's air defense, was warmly received in official circles.

Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, said the chief executive probably would go through into the recommendations with Secretary of War George H. Dern upon their return to the capital.

Dern, now in Panama, is expected back at his desk next month, shortly after the president concludes his ocean cruise. In a letter to Baker, the war secretary praised the work of the board and said:

"In your conclusions and recommendations you have covered most thoroughly the many contentious issues which have been retarding the development of army aviation for the past several years. The scope of your studies is so thorough and comprehensive as to furnish a sound basis for proper and efficient development of future aviation."

Recommendations of the board included:

Expansion of the army air corps to 2,320 planes; addition of 403 air officers; a fixed aviation policy to be maintained for a "reasonable time," a steady procurement program which would develop the domestic aviation industry; assignment of additional air officers to the general staff of the army; additional training for pilots.

Although no plans in connection with the report have been made, it was indicated tonight the recommendations would be sent to the senate and house military affairs committee as part of the usual procedure.

MDIVANI WILL TAKE BARBARA TO ORIENT

PARIS, July 23.—(AP)—Prince Alexis Mdivani disclosed, as he dashed through Paris today, that he plans to play golf in India this fall and that he expects to take his wife, the former Barbara Hutton, to the orient with him.

His announcement was said by friends to discredit the oft-told story that Alexis' wife objects to his fondness for sports.

The prince passed through Paris on his way to Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia, where he planned to join his wife.

Is Your Family Interested IN JIG-SAW PUZZLES?

The estate which requires proper administration is generally complex.

The head of the family, who created that estate, grew up with it. Varied as the interests may be, he developed them one by one and was familiar with them. His was the guiding hand which co-ordinated them, to produce income.

But to the family after his death they are truly a jig-saw puzzle. Placing them together—determining how they fit to make a complete picture—that may be amusement in a puzzle, but it becomes expensive entertainment in an estate.

Such administration calls for the experience of competent, trustworthy men—men who have faced such situations many times—men who do not have to experiment, because they know how to do the job properly.

They are the Trust Officers of your bank. In THE CITIZENS & SOUTHERN their record of successful estate administration is the only recommendation they need.

Stage Show Features

Program at Capitol

"Moulin Rouge Nite Club Revue," featured at the Capitol theater this week, is a smooth and more or less sophisticated piece of vaudeville. The orchestra is good and the dancing varies from a solo toe-dance to a ballet with fans (and, to misquote the Raven, with nothing more).

Most effective is an adagio dance by Drake and Crutcher in which the muscular Tarnan of the act cracks a long leather whip about the shoulders of his partner. The rest of the vaudeville is made up of the usual crooning and coqueting.

Spencer Tracy, starred in the feature picture, "Now Till Tomorrow," by McCullough. It is a convincing characterization of a big-town gambler who is game to the end. The role was an especially difficult one to play for, although the story was written by Mrs. Rothstein, who should certainly know the ins and outs of a gambler's life, the finished product has a faint odor of melodrama and moralizing that does not seem quite sincere.

Helen Twilwines is almost too angelic as the wife who follows the dice-thrower to the "Rue de la Paix" and learns of his little playmate of the cabarets, Alice Faye. And the end of the film is a washout, although a few sentimentalists will find the audience wept dutifully and plentifully.

Some of the gambling scenes are made almost breath-taking through the suspense created by Spencer Tracy's acting. He risks his whole fortune on the turn of a card and wins or loses with the same nonchalance. The whole thing is a little too reminiscent of the "confession" magazines.

Burlesque Offering

Found Rich and Racy

Fast, rich, racy, and tuncful, describes the bill at the Atlanta theater this week.

The honors go to Al Pharr, Joe Stanley, Lorraine Funn, and Peggy Smith, despite a good cast. Marshall Walker is missing this week but Al and Joe are equal to anything that may arise in the nature of a laugh.

Peggy Smith, the girl with a voice, has gotten herself a new mode of hair dressing and though you may not know her, the voice is still the same. She does an act in the second part which will make you think of some of those parties you've been on. Incidentally, Barney Kay, her male rival for warbling honors, is better than ever and shows that he does know something about a stage presence after all.

In the strips the honors must go to Lorraine Funn and Al Pharr. They both took the house by storm. Despite the fact that Texas Wagner was billed as the star, Texas is good and does her share, but the audience gave the big hands to the other two Monday night. Vic is to be especially recommended for her bronze dance which closed the first act. It was sheer poetry of movement.

One must mention Frances Williams, of the chorus, if you please, who came forth in the first act to show

Culbertson on Contract

Discarding the Obvious.

As I have often stated in these columns there is more to winning dummy than play than sound technique. The declarer is the general of an army consisting of 26 pastboard soldiers and as such he is in complete charge of the movements of each and every one of them. He must plan his attack, assign certain duties to each his soldiers, and then be prepared to change his entire plan of campaign at a moment's notice, as new information comes to him in the early stages of the battle.

In today's hand, the declarer, after looking at the dummy, decided that he had only one chance of fulfilling his contract—taking a certain finesse. At trick 2 a play was made by the defense which suddenly caused South to discard his original very simple plan and adopt a more complicated one which, despite its difficulty, seemed to offer the greater chance for success.

Neither side vulnerable.

GO-GIRL

By PEGGY GADDIS.

WHAT WAS GOING BEFORE? While Calissa Logan, pretty 19-year-old southern cotton mill worker, is dancing in a pavilion with others who were in the vicinity of Kent Stanley, 25 and handsome, whose aristocratic mother owns the mill. Calissa has just danced with Jim Wright, who is "counting" her, and is on the floor with Bill Evans when Kent cuts in. When the music ceases "the young boss" suggests that they go for a drive in his roadster. He stops at the roadside and she expects to be "paved" but when she refuses his kiss he drives her to her home, the shabby cottage of her uncle and aunt, as they arrive Calissa confides that she repulsed him because she suddenly realized how much she wanted him to kiss her. She kisses him and he gives her his fraternal ring but he begins to worry about his mother and takes her plunking the next evening with the intention of asking Calissa to return the ring. When she offers it to him voluntarily he impulsively tells her to keep it. He makes serious love to her and she is very happy when he leaves her. Jim Wright steps out of the shadows, demands to know what she has been doing, and is forcibly kissing her when Kent comes back to give her her forgotten mill lunch box. She cannot find words to explain as Kent drives away, jealousy for three days she does not see him. That evening Jim shoots her and kills himself when she says she never wants to see him again. Kent comes to see her in the hospital, bringing a great basket of flowers. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT X. There are half a dozen cotton mill towns between Augusta and Stanley Mills, and it was in one of these that Bill stopped and deposited his companion, returning to the car after a prolonged good night in the shadow of the doorway. Calissa had just time enough to slide down into her hiding place before Bill came, he got to the car, and once more the yellow roadster sped toward Stanley Mills. Bill boarded in a "family hotel" two blocks from Calissa's own home, and Calissa waited, tensely, as Bill drove into the big backyard of this boarding house, and got out to open his garage.

She raised her hand, and with the fingers of her other hand felt the seal-ring that Kent had placed there. The feel of it, cool and smooth and solid, reassured her, and she smiled. Of course she was engaged to Kent—didn't she wear his ring? And wasn't he in his arms in the dusky twilight, there in the daisy-meadow, and felt his kisses hot and sweet on her lips—heard his words of love in her ears? Of course she was engaged to Kent—a lovely thought—she thought, and with its standing sweet and clear-cut like the flame of a candle in her mind.

She was dragged out of the deep sleep of exhaustion, to see the sunlight patterning the dusty floor, and to find Emma shaking her vigorously by the shoulder, waving a newspaper before her face. Emma's ugly little monkeylike face was bright with excitement, her eyes dancing, and she was crying, in an excited sing-song: "Hey, Calissa, wake up—your pitcher's in the paper—just like Greta Garbo! Look at it!" Calissa sat up and reached for the paper, the Sunday feature section of the Atlanta newspaper, and as her eyes saw the headlines, her heart sank like lead, and she felt the sun in his eyes, looking very young and handsome and gay; a picture of herself—she winced at sight of it. A particularly unflattering snapshot taken three summers ago, in which she looked awkward and clumsy, and not at all attractive. A stiff, unconvincing picture of Jim, evidently taken when he was a student, and of about the same age, in a cheap photograph gallery, judging by the pose and the result of the work. There was a highly imaginative pen and ink drawing of the shooting—and the text of the story was equally as disturbing.

Calissa read the account of her meeting with Kent—lightly colored, very much exaggerated—and in it recognized some of her aunt's dramatic touches. Kent was pictured as a young scion of wealth so carried away by the beauty of one of his humblest employees—the humble abode of the girl, her poverty and her incredible beauty all received their share of words—that he had moved heaven and earth to possess her. Calissa knew it had been her aunt and uncle, and perhaps some of the highly interested neighbors who had provided the material on which the story had been based, and she did not blame the reporter at all. "Gee gosh, Calissa, you're famous!" said Emma, with a note of awe in her voice. "Mom says are you going to work this morning?" "Well, why shouldn't I go to work?" she snapped. "We'll, gee gosh whilkers, y'don't have to take my head off—just because you got your pitcher in the paper! Emma, Emma, Emma, Calissa was almost afraid to think of what Kent must be feeling. Of course, he was in Atlanta, and so he had turned out two days now. Stanley Mills bought the Atlanta Sunday papers on Monday, of course. She wondered if this was why she had not heard from him—was he angry with her because he had been drawn into this sordid little story? Was he offended because the fact that he had given her a ring had been broadcast to the world? Or was he read? Was he disgusted with her—

Aunt Lou and Uncle John faced her with a little apprehension, but she greeted them quietly. What was the use of worrying and making a scene now, at this time? The harm had been done—it was too late to stop it, so why fight about something that can't be altered? Aunt Lou was so relieved that she had already prepared about what happens to girls who don't come home to supper, and who go about until all hours, heaven only knows where.

On her way to work, she was conscious of veiled glances, of murmurs that stopped short, of averted eyes, and as she passed the commissary one of the loafers murmured something that made the others laugh, and Calissa knew it was some ribald remark about herself. But she set her teeth, and went on without a glance in their direction. In the locker room, as she put away her lunch box and changed her dress for the smock that she wore at her loom, she knew that the other girls were watching her avidly, with envy, and a touch of malice in their attitude. Her position in the Sunday paper had set her somewhat apart from them, just as her part in the "shooting" had done, and she felt that she was not quite decided how they should treat her. Whether as a heroine or as an outcast.

It was about 10:30 when her foreman came to her. "Old Man wants to see you in his office—here. Sadie, take over Calissa's loom a spell," he ordered, briskly. Calissa was still staring at him with suddenly stilled hands, and wide, frightened eyes, when he came on, his pick-up on and set "em down" in the foreman's office, the equivalent of "step lively, please!" "Old Man" wanted to keep the Old Man waiting—he's madder'n a wet hen now.

Calissa turned from her loom and followed the foreman between rows of whirling machinery to whose sound she was so accustomed that now she was actually unconscious of it. In the general manager's office sat the old man—the general manager—and a stranger, a man of about 40, tall, rather spare, well-groomed, with a rather long, clean-shaven face ornamented by horn-rimmed glasses. Calissa noticed that his hands as he fumbled with some papers on the desk before him. Afterward, when she thought of him, her first mental picture was of those too white hands which looked as though they would be soft and slightly moist.

"Here's the girl you sent for, boss," said the foreman, and hoped he'd be allowed to wait, and hear what was up.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

FIERCE FISH OF THE SEA.

II—Sharks. If we were making a list of "public enemies" of the sea, most of us would give the shark first place. There would be justice in that, for sharks cause much harm to human beings; but we must remember that sharks are of many kinds. Some kinds never have been known to attack any member of our race.

Among the many cases of shark tragedies is the one which took place on September 12, 1919. Thirteen men were upset in a boat off the coast of Costa Rica on September 12, 1919. Six, being poor swimmers, were drowned; but the rest struck out for shore. People on the beach saw sharks attack the swimmers, lifting some of them part way out of the water; and only one man came in alive.

In general it is safe to swim near the shore of the North Atlantic, because dangerous sharks are not likely to go into the shallow water; but now and then there is a panic on a bathing beach because a shark gets into the midst of swimmers. Eighteen years ago this month a man and a boy were killed off the coast of New Jersey by what was reported to be a "nine-foot shark." Later a white shark was caught four miles off shore, and when it was cut open its stomach was found to contain bits of human clothing. It measured eight and a half feet in length, and weighed 350 pounds. An eight-foot shark is a small one. Some of the "man-eating" white sharks are 30 feet long. Tiger sharks, also extremely dangerous, are just as large, and some weigh more than 1,500 pounds.

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers and answered by Caroline Chatfield, care The Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have a husband that requires the same sort of nursing that a baby requires. He likes to sit at home in the evening and he doesn't like to read. Occasionally we have a couple in for a game of cards but never more often than twice a week. Please make some suggestions as to how to keep him amused.

MRS. C.
Answer: The Prince of Wales has taken to needlework. Perhaps you can persuade your husband to follow suit. There are hundreds of games on sale at the stores, which may help you to while away a few evenings. If you can read aloud, a good continued story will furnish entertainment and won't scare him off as might the sight of a book in your hand. If he has any taste for manual arts a workbench in the basement wouldn't be a bad idea and if he won't get up an interest in these things there is nothing to do but let him suck his thumb.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am a new bride of two months and terribly dissatisfied. I really thought I loved my husband when I married him, but I am convinced I was mistaken. He says he loves me, and he is certainly good to me, but nothing he does pleases me. Father told me when I was married that if I left my husband I couldn't come home to live. What shall I do?

RESTLESS.

Answer: Last spring a widow said to her daughter: "Now here is money to buy yourself a spring suit. If you want me to help you select it, I will be glad to shop with you, but if you had rather exercise your own judgment it's all right with me. Just remember that when the time comes to select a suit, it is no more than a young lady went out, exercised her own judgment, which turned out to be very bad. The suit was unbecoming, the material didn't wear well, and she was out of the money. So she came crying to her mother that her costume was a sight and she had to have money to buy another. But after being warned that that had been issued to her in the beginning, she settled herself to make the best of her bad bargain. This, my dear, is what you must do. Even though you are not entirely satisfied with your marriage bargain, you should remember that you made it, made it in the face of a warning from your father that you couldn't come home should you break it.

If you give a little thought to your husband and his feelings instead of selfishly considering your own feelings, you will find that the effort to make him happy will cure your restlessness.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

How to Have a Soft, Smooth, Exquisite Skin

For red, coarse, oily or shiny skins, and rough, spotted, wrinkled complexion, never use powder, because it clogs up the pores of the skin and creates an unhealthy condition. Use in place of powder, Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumbers, which will produce a beautifully clear, soft, smooth and healthy complexion.

Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumbers contains no harmful mercury, but is guaranteed to contain essence of cucumber; it is soothing and refreshing; its presence cannot be detected and it is considered the most refined and exquisite of all complexion preparations. Does not dirt, rub or blow off like powder, and one application lasts all day. Excellent for chapped hands and face.

Dr. Blair's Cream of Cucumbers will not grow hair, but does prevent blackheads, takes the redness and sting out of a wind-burned complexion, and will, in time, remove all wrinkles. IT'S UP TO THE WOMEN

By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt
The following is one of a series of 60 articles in which the First Lady of the Land tells what she thinks about a variety of subjects close to the heart of all modern women. Every word has been written by Mrs. Roosevelt herself.

LIII—Budgeting Your Maintenance.

There are certain social implications in your decision of how much rent you will have to pay. In considering rent you must also consider transportation, whatever wage earners are going to live in the house. If it is a young married couple, usually only one of them will have to go back and forth daily to work, but if it is a family with growing children several members of the family may have to take daily trips back and forth to school or to work and the cost of their transportation may make it wise to pay more rent and live nearer their places of employment.

This again is an individual question which each family will have to work out for itself.

One of the difficulties of growing girls is that they sometimes like staying with their elders, and unless we find a way by which we can let them stay at home in comparative peace and quiet, they will go out with their young friends and we will be without any knowledge of what they may be doing. Hence the importance of living quarters.

In considering the family food expenses and in preparing menus, it would be well to go over Miss Flora Rose's menu or any menus prepared by a home economics college and see if there is anything that can be done more economically and have a nourishing and balanced diet at lower cost. Then consult cook books and newspaper suggestions in order to provide more variety.

Next comes the consideration of the item—"house maintenance," which includes such repairs as the home owner, even though having with tools, cannot do himself. These things seem small, but usually mount up surprisingly, but this cannot be computed accurately. It must be decided by experience how much will be needed for heat, light and telephone, which now forms a fixed charge in almost every type of house except those of the very poor and some farms in the country.

If a family owns its own house, instead of rental they should compute all the expenses—taxes, interest on the mortgage, insurance, maintenance and repairs, as these are practically fixed charges and amount to the same thing as rent.

When you come to the third item, clothes, there is almost nothing that can be put down in a general way, for every family has special needs. I have found it very valuable always to make a clothes budget and to find out how long certain things which are expensive at the start, can be worn.

For instance, for me it pays to buy a rather expensive tailored suit, made to order, as I am not a size for whom it is easy to buy ready-made things, and I wear it a long time. I also happen to be very fond of hand work of all kinds and therefore hand-made underclothes have always appealed to me and I wear them as long as they last. One can usually count on a coat lasting two seasons, but a new hat will frequently make people think that everything one has on is new.

PATTON DEATH SEEN AS PLANNED MURDER

Atlanta detectives Monday discounted the report that Tom Patton, fatally shot Saturday night by one of two negroes who accosted him while he was out walking with his wife near his home, 69 Peachtree place, N. W., was shot during a momentary holdup. Patton died Sunday night at Grady hospital.

Detective W. B. Martin reported that Mrs. Patton told him that when the two negroes walked between her and her husband, Patton took out his knife. Instantly, and without saying a word, one of the negroes opened fire, she said. One of the bullets hit Patton in the abdomen, another in the right shoulder and the third in the right hip.

Detective Martin stated he believed the slaying was "deliberate murder." The body was taken Monday to Murphy, N. C., for funeral services and interment.

ATHENS-GAINESVILLE ROAD WORK IS URGED

A delegation of nearly 500 citizens of Clarke, Jackson and Hall counties called on Governor Eugene Talmadge and the state highway board Monday in the interest of paving the Athens-Gainesville road through Jefferson.

The delegation more than filled the hall of the house if representatives, where the paving plan was laid before the highway board.

The road, which is 40 miles long, is only partly paved. It is paved a few miles out of Athens and through the city of Jefferson. Leaders of the delegation stressed the fact that the highway is already graded and drained and that it will not cost a great amount of money to pave it.

The highway board took the project under advisement.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(P)—

Stocks declined sharply today to a new low level for the year under the heaviest volume since May 10 last.

Rails were particularly weak and dropped 1 to 3 points. Elsewhere prominent stocks ranged up to 7 points. National Lead showing one of the extreme recessions.

Barrenness spread to commodities and bonds, although the markets held better than stocks. Second-grade railroad bonds were weak with carrier stocks. High-grade rail bonds did not encounter much pressure.

Market observers were at a loss to find an explanation for the resumption of the decline at the outset of the new week. There was nothing specific in the day's news to cause selling. Swelled by increased offerings in the last hour, volume on the stock exchange totaled 1,805,740 shares compared with 1,237,315 Friday.

The Standard Statistics Company average for 90 stocks closed at 2.5 points lower at 72.2. Rails, utilities and industrials have penetrated the resistance points established on the spring decline in mid-May.

Among rails, Indiana, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific and Erie finished about 2 to 3 points lower.

United States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, Good year Tire, J. I. Case, Owens-Illinois Glass and International Harvester were on the list of industrial shares touching the low points recorded this year on declines of 1 to 3 points.

Wheat was unable to hold early gains in face of the decline in stocks and finished at 47.75, a cent and a bushel lower. Corn, however, edged 1 to 1 3/4 cents higher. A rally in cotton reduced losses finally to 20 to 30 cents a bale.

Business reports showed little change in the summer tempo. The American Iron and Steel Institute estimated current steel output at 27.7 per cent of capacity compared with 28.8 per cent a week ago.

DECREASE EXPECTED IN STEEL PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, July 23.—(P)—The American Iron and Steel Institute estimates steel production during the current week at 27.7 per cent of capacity, compared with 28.8 per cent a week ago and 44.7 per cent a month ago. This is a decrease of 1.1 points, or 3.8 per cent.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.—FENNER & BEANE appears to be equally probable that a rally could follow from the present market, even though betterment is getting under way.

BEER & CO.—There were some indications of climatic change in the early Monday, but we would be inclined to avoid confirmation of that theory in Tuesday's session before making any move.

DOBBS & CO.—The fact that the market moved at the low for the day Monday suggests a lower opening for Tuesday.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We do not believe that conservative holdings of good stocks need be sacrificed.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(P)—

A flood of selling orders caused a general retreat in curb prices today. Losses to around 3 points were frequent throughout the list and were braced utilities, oils, alcohols and metals.

Transfers, which approximated 290,000 shares, were the largest since May 7, and compared with 220,000 last Friday.

The market was steady at the start but offerings appeared shortly after the turn of the first hour. The list steadied around noon but the reaction was reversed. Some support developed at the close.

Pepperell Manufacturing lost 4 points while shares finishing around 2 to 3 lower included Dow Chemical, Firestone Rubber, General Electric, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Parker Rust Proof, Hiram Walker, Schiff Co. and Newmont.

Recessions of major fractions to more than a point were shown by American Gas & Electric, Electric Power & Light, Distillers Corporation, Seagrams, Greyhound Corp., Lake Shore, Humble Oil, Sherwin Williams and Glen Alden Coal.

GERM MURDER HEARING BEGINS IN CALCUTTA

Three Prominent Doctors and Brother of Victim on Trial.

CALCUTTA, India, July 23.—(UP)—Benoyendra Pandey, young Brahmin, went on trial for his life today with three prominent Calcutta physicians involved in the weird "germ murder case."

Pandey and medical men are charged with conspiring to bring about the death of his stepbrother, Amarendra, by injecting deadly germs into the victim.

The court was packed with doctors and the elite of Calcutta society when the trial opened, women predominating in the tense audience.

Made to Appear Natural. The public prosecutor said the state would show the brother employed the "medical brains" to induce a fatal disease which would normally appear to have been contracted in the usual manner. He described the murder as an unparalleled act of diabolical ingenuity.

The testimony was expected to unravel one of the strangest tales of alleged fratricide told in modern times. The three physicians involved with Pandey were Dr. S. B. Bhattacharya, Dr. R. D. Dhar, and Dr. T. N. Bhattacharya.

The charges say they ransacked half India to find a poison to kill Amarendra, co-heir with his stepbrother in a large ancestral estate. It is also alleged that Benoyendra insured his stepbrother for $20,000 and stipulated on taking out the policy that no inquiries should be made into the manner of the insured man's death.

Benoyendra is alleged to have conceived the scheme of infecting Amarendra with plague germs. It is asserted that Benoyendra smeared germs on the bridge of a pair of spectacles which he gave to Amarendra. Amarendra developed a virulent case of tetanus, complicated with sinus and other troubles, but survived.

Germs Rubbed In. The prosecution alleges Benoyendra and his accomplices after many failures obtained a deadly culture of plague germs from the Bombay hospital. They first experimented on white rats, it was charged, and the rats died within 24 hours after the germs were rubbed on them.

Satisfied they had the right poison, the charges say, the quartet went to work. While Amarendra stood in a room, they rubbed the germs on his nose. Amarendra developed a virulent case of tetanus, complicated with sinus and other troubles, but survived.

Amarendra developed a high fever with swelling glaners and died. Dr. Bhattacharya issued a certificate of death from septic pneumonia, but a blood analysis proved it to have been a strange plague. The arrests followed.

One drunk led to another and soon the child staggered around and flopped on a bed, officers were told. Then Grange took the boy to another place and gave him a drink there, according to testimony. He got him, then, so they took him home.

The boy was taken to the hospital unconscious yesterday morning and underwent a second-degree murder trial. An investigation was started immediately and second-degree murder warrants were sworn out today before a justice of the peace. The hearing has not been set.

Security Firm Officials Beaten by Armed Men

NEWARK, N. J., July 23.—(AP)—Five men, all armed with guns, wrecked the office of the Investors' Security Company on the sixth floor of the Union building at 9 and 11 Clinton street today, severely beating the manager and his assistant, and escaped. The cause of the attack was not known.

The manager, Louis A. Bloom, 32, of New York city, suffered serious head wounds as the result of being beaten by gun butts and other implements and taken to city hospital. His assistant, Harry Allen, 22, of (280 Gregory avenue) Passaic, N. J., was seriously injured, was treated in the office.

Allen told police the five men rushed into the office, turned over the telephone switchboard near the entrance and at gun point showed three employees into an adjoining office. They then proceeded to beat him and Bloom and to wreck the furniture.

The men, Allen said, made no demands of any kind. He added that he did not know the marauders and could not explain the sudden attack.

NORMAN, HARRISON ARRIVE FROM EUROPE

Bankers Close-Mouthed on Herriot and Tardieu May Be Removed as Crisis Looms.

NEW YORK, July 23.—(AP)—Two taciturn bankers—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and George L. Harrison, governor of the federal reserve bank of New York—arrived from Europe today on the liner Europa.

They had little to say, and said that very quickly. There have been reports that Norman and Harrison sailed on the same boat to continue conversations on financial matters which they engaged in at Basel, Switzerland.

Norman, tall, grey and bearded, let it be known he was "on a vacation." Harrison issued a statement which was a repetition of what he cabled as Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, last week.

"I have no statement to make," he said, "other than what I already have said—that the only purpose of my trip to Europe was to pay a visit to certain European banks abroad to inform them regarding conditions at home and to attempt to ascertain as much as I could of conditions there."

"As I told Senator Thomas, I did not negotiate or arrange about any thing."

Prompted by published reports, Senator Thomas, inflationist, had cabled Harrison not to enter any stabilization agreement and warned against "tying our money in any way to any foreign money."
